Dear Mr. Steyer,

First, let me thank you for everything you are doing to safeguard the environment and create a better future for all of us. But I have a major concern, not just about Galvanize Climate Solutions, but about the broader picture.

There are hundreds of organizations working diligently to improve our world, both socially and environmentally, all of them making some progress in their specific areas. And yet we're continuing to lose the overall battle, sliding backwards into a dystopian nightmare of our own making.

No single individual or organization can solve the monumental issues we're facing. So what I'm at a loss to explain is why all of these various groups are not cooperating, why aren't we offering yearly or even biannual gatherings where potential solutions are discussed, where these divergent groups can work together instead of independently?

Benjamin Franklin said, just after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, "We must all hang together, or most assuredly we shall hang separately." This phrase should be the motto for an across-the-board, all-inclusive movement to stop the destruction of our constitution.

You have the power, the authority, and the name recognition to create such a gathering by working with others. It is imperative that we move on the consolidation of efforts as soon as possible. There is no time to waste.

Thank you again.

Sincerely,

Tobin Fraley
